

Natural, Mathematical & Engineering Sciences remote study request for Semester 2 2021/22

This form is to request remote study for a programme based in the Faculty of Natural, Mathematical & Engineering Sciences for the duration of teaching for Semester 2 in 2021/22 (17 January - 1 April 2022). It can also be used to let us know that you cannot be here for an in-person exam in January (during 10-14 January 2022) and to request an exam via remote invigilation. Alternatively you can request a deferral of your in-person exam via an MCF to take it in the August exam period.

You should only complete this form if your department is supporting remote study for Semester 2 or if you have an in-person exam in January 2021, please check with them if you are not sure

The deadline for completing this form is 1 December 2021. A decision will be made on your request and communicated to you by 7 December 2021. If your request is approved your record will then be updated to show you studying remotely for Semester 2 and/or taking an exam remotely. You should note that any request for remote study applies to the whole of Semester 2 and cannot be changed.

Please search 'remote study' on Student Services Online for more information.

There are 3 reasons for me to apply to study remotely in semester 2 :

1. Due to the sudden outbreak of a new round of COVID-19 in Lanzhou, China, where I live, the local government department issued a policy to lockdown, requests to close the residential regions and prevents most residents from going out of home and gathering. All areas are locked down, and also, flights and railway traffic in and out of the city are restricted, which makes it difficult for me to travel abroad.

2. As there had been confirmed cases around me, I was suspected of being infected, which resulted in me being asked to isolate and observe at home now. Therefore, I am not sure if I
